

Metro Fiber | Four Largest Texas Metros

HOUSTON, SAN ANTONIO, DALLAS & AUSTIN MARKETS

Nearly 90 miles of fiber available for lease within Texas’ four largest metros – San Antonio, Houston, Austin and Dallas. The San Antonio route includes segments in the central business district, and a north loop extending from Travis Park, north along Broadway through Alamo Heights to SAT International Airport, and northeast along Austin Hwy through Village North. The route in Houston consists of a 17-mile ring that traverses through the southeast portion of the city, traversing along Main St near the Texas Medical Center and Rice University, north past Interstate 69, and east to Uptown, and south primarily along the railway. The 19 miles available in Austin consist of a central business district segment and a ring that extends out east along Hwy 71 to the airport. The six miles of fiber available in Dallas is 100% underground and traverses directly through the central business district and up into the Bryan Place neighborhood.
